AIG's trusted partners and experienced claims professionals help clients prepare for and recover from crisis events.

Why choose AIG for CrisiSolution Insurance?

While rarely publicized, crisis events like kidnap for ransom, extortion, wrongful detention, and security evacuation are increasing—particularly as international business opportunities and leisure travel expand. Additional assault threats now call for comprehensive coverage that protects employees and their families from a range of perils at the office and abroad.

AIG provides 200+ claims professionals globally who speak local languages and understand local laws and customs. CrisiSolution provides worldwide primary and excess coverage for kidnapping, extortion, wrongful detention, hijacking, threat, disappearance, and hostage events, and other crises for corporate businesses, individuals, and high-net-worth families.

What is Kidnap, Ransom and Extortion (KRE) Insurance?

The primary purpose of kidnap, ransom, and extortion ("KR&E") insurance is to protect companies and families against the high costs associated with a kidnapping. These incidents are typically enacted to extort high sums of money from those insured. Though high-wealth individuals and their families are often targeted, individuals who work for large, lucrative companies may also be at risk—particularly with foreign business travel. For this reason, many coverage options now extend to employees and their families.

Today, KR&E policies may also cover workplace violence, which includes active shooter scenarios. The considerable physical risks of these events are evident, but there are many hidden costs, as well. These include settlements, evacuation procedures, and rest and rehabilitation of the individuals involved.
